Little Things Worth Noticing once in a While.

It has been said that it is one of the impossibilities, to conduct a newspaper so as to give satisfaction to everybody, and the editor who hopes to accomplish such a marvel, is pretty sure to find himself right speedily and most grievously disappointed. With no little experience, in less sensitive and more homogeneous communities than this, we established the Union, without indulging the hope that everybody would affectionately put us on the editorial back and gratefully say, "well done, thou good and faithful servant." If it is so we know it to be, a difficult task as a general thing satisfactorily to conduct a newspaper in other communities where there is a general consensus of sentiment on most questions, we know it would have been the impossible here, where there is such a wide-spread diversity of opinion on questions vitally affecting society. We know, also, that whatever effort we might make to overcome unfounded prejudice and bitterness of feeling, there were plenty of persons to attack and abuse, as special favorites. It is to stir up strife, misrepresent or to misinterpret whatever we might say, and keep alive the burning coals of fanaticism and prejudice. Nevertheless, without seeking to gratify such persons, we concluded to pursue the even tenor of our way, consistent in the justice of our cause, the correction of our motives, and the real good to be effected by a calm, dispassionate, straightforward dealing with men and events. We have not been disappointed. The Union has been received among all classes of people, most kindly, despite the exertions of our enemies—our subscription list has been daily augmented. Still, we are often impressed with the truth of the sentiment expressed in the first few lines of this article. Hardly a day passes by, that somebody either directly, or indirectly, does not inquire, why don't we pitch into this thing or that? Why not denounce this man, or expose that heresy? And because we do not enter into all the virulence and bitterness of a religious controversy, and take active part in denouncing men indiscriminately on account of their faith, the Union is charged with being a sort of Mormon institution. On the other hand, once in a while, a superlatively sensitive Saint reads half a dozen lines in the paper, and immediately construes them into a savage and wanton attack on his church and religion. Forthwith, he hurls our editor, and bids him "stop my paper," and works himself into a huge passion over that "abusive sheet."

Now, all we have to say to this sort of folks, is that they consult their own peace of mind by not reading the Union. We don't write for such narrow, contracted folks, steeped in prejudice, who cannot endure even the remotest allusions to their own and their fellows' doings. If they can afford to do without the Union, we take pleasure in assuring them that we can surely "live and move and have a being" without their pitiful dollar a month. But we suggest that after loftily "stopping that d—d paper," and blowing around town concerning their heroic conduct, consistency, (to say nothing about honesty) forbids that they should go over to their neighbors to read his paper. Such devotion to one's leaders and church as is indicated by withdrawing patronage from the Union, is highly commendable no doubt, but if you know how these same leaders and every other intelligent man involved in such meekling affection of indignation, you would hunt a very small hole. There is one thing we have noticed in this little matter, and it is this: the intelligent among the Saints, the men who have the best reputation for sincerity in their cause, who believe really and truly in the divine appointment of Brigham, and who work uprightly before their fellow men, are not the splenetic individuals referred to. But invariably we find that those splenetic chaps who can't endure the remotest reference to Mormonism, and who grow highly indignant at the bare mention of anything wrong among the Saints, turn out to be the very men whose motives have been notoriously hung loosely on the shoulders—who have been under the ban of the church itself more than once—and persecuted three or four times for laxity in church matters. It is just such men as these, who think to cover up their own shortcomings by blating out devotion to the church and holding up their hands in holy horror, as at a sacrilege, if we happen to mention Brigham, or to hint at anything in any other than the most exalted terms. To such men, the writing of a truth which nobody will deny, is construed into abuse and vilification. If it be necessary to intimate that Brigham Young has more than his wife, (however delicately and respectfully it may be said) our paper is indulging in blackguardism and must be stopped. If we object to and comment on Elder Taylor's reviling of the Government and the Union, while he lauds the happiness and freedom vouchsafed by a European monarchy; if we reprobate Gen. Wells' published or secret orders for the people to arm and prepare for war in a time of peace, why, forsooth, we publish a lying, abusive sheet—in the minds of a few prejudiced and pharisaical individuals we wot of.

All this, we bargained for, and in fact, rather like it. We haven't the good will of the narrow, contracted and prejudiced of either side, and we neither cultivate nor desire it. We propose to pursue our quiet, independent course, turning neither to the right hand nor to the left, to avoid the sneers or win the applause of radicals or fanatics, either in politics, morals or religion.

When we think the teachings of public men lead to social or public trouble, we shall not hesitate to say so. If any man thinks he is so far above the law and the Constitution, that he can violate the one and sneer at the other, with impunity, we shall hold him up to public accountability at the bar of popular opinion. If another teaches erroneous doctrine, affecting the daily or civil life of the people, we shall try to expose his deceptions and warn the people against him. And, finally, if any public man is so fool to patriotism and duty as to seek to instill disregard for the Union and disloyalty to the Government in the minds of his hearers, we shall continue to denounce his treason, and not hesitate to characterize him as traitor. Now, if there is anybody so tender footed that his faith can't stand the test of reason, who cannot endure good, named but honest comment on his or his neighbors doings and teachings—he had better stop his paper—and confine his reading to the telegraphic extras, and subscribe for some paper that prints nothing but advertisements. And that's all we have to say just now, to our Gentile or Saintly friends on this point.

We call attention to the Card of Mr. W. I. Appleby, Attorney at Law and Clerk of the U. S. Supreme Court for Utah. Mr. Appleby is an able lawyer and of great experience in the drawing up of legal documents of all kinds; and his services, whether in the capacity of advocate or scrivener, are well worthy of securing by those having legal business of any kind on hand.

BY OVERLAND TELEGRAPH.

SPECIAL TO THE DAILY UNION VEDETTE.

WASHINGTON, May 20.

Among numerous amendments to the Internal Revenue bill reported from the Senate committee, are the following, viz: collection districts are made equal to the number of Representatives. The penalty for refusal to make a return properly to the assessors is increased to fifty per cent. The tax on distilled spirits is unchanged, excepting one dollar and a quarter per gallon, charged from October 1st instead of January 1st. The penalty for manufacturing tobacco or cigars without permit, is increased to $300 and imprisonment for one year. The duty on illuminating gas is reduced twenty-five cents per thousand. The tax on refined sugars is reduced half a cent per pound; on sales of merchandise or produce, one-eighth per cent is charged; custom made clothing is reduced to three per cent.

New York, May 20th.

Dispatches dated Head-Quarters, Wednesday evening, say: At 5 this morning the 6th corps, supported by Hancock's on the right and Burnside's on the left, advanced against the enemy's works; the rifle pits in front were those which were abandoned by us and filled with rebel sharpshooters, who were soon dislodged and driven through the second line and behind a thick, impenetrable abattis of most formidable character, on examination of which, it was deemed best not to attempt to charge through this barricade, and the troops fell back, in good order, exposed to a galling fire of shell and canister from both flanks. Our loss is about 800 killed and wounded. Burnside's corps was partly engaged at the last of the above fight, to the number of about one-fourth. An attack was made by the enemy on our left in the afternoon, when Warren posted our batteries and soon drove them back and silenced their guns. All quiet at 6 p. m.

Later—May 19, 6 a. m. Just received intelligence from the Guano Station that Fredericksburg, on the Virginia railroad, was entered last night by rebel scouts, who captured the telegraph office and station. A large quantity of supplies were destroyed.

The Herald's special says: The action of Wednesday at Spottsylvania, resulted in a success to Grant, in gaining the advantage in our position on the enemy's right. This was the object of the attack by Grant. Our entire loss, does not exceed 1,000 killed, wounded and missing. No general officers have been killed or wounded up to 10 o'clock. On Thursday the battle had not been renewed. The position occupied by Lee is a vast entrenched camp, of very great natural strength, which has been increased by the erection of formidable fortifications, which were built long ago in anticipation of their need. Lee manifests no disposition to come out from his defenses; every opportunity has been offered him to do so, and a change in the position of our forces has been made with a view of compelling him to accept battle beyond his fortifications.

New York, May 20th.

A Key West correspondence of the 13th, announces the capture of Tampa, Florida, on the 4th. On hearing the town, our troops charged at a double quick, and surprised the inhabitants of the town; but, finding that the rebel troops had left the day before to reinforce Lee's army, but few prisoners were taken. One blockade runner was captured and the fortifications destroyed.

Philadelphia, May 20th.

The Bulletin says: English letters state that combined demonstrations will be made against the northern coast by Confederate pirates as soon as they can be got ready. The fact of the Rappahannock's non-arrival at the Bahamas, delayed it a month. This information comes from Confederate officers through our spies.

The Bulletin's special says: The Star states all the skirmishes of Grant's army for the past few days, have been in our favor; a battle is imminent. A large number of the prisoners taken on Wednesday, confess the rebels to be in want of supplies.

Washington, May 20th.

The House to-day, by a vote of 41 to 26, concurred in the report of the Committee of Conference on the money bill.

Cincinnati, May 21st.

A dispatch from Gauley Bridge gives an account of a brilliant victory by Averill on the 8th, with a portion of the main body of Crook's army. Averill reached a point within four miles of Wellsville where he encountered the enemy 4,000 strong, under Sam Jones. The fight lasted four hours, driving the rebels back, killing and wounding many, capturing a number of prisoners. The rebels retreated under cover of the darkness. Our loss is 120. Averill then destroyed the railroad thence to a point four miles east of Cheshamsburg. At this place a small body of rebels were encountered, who hastily retreated.

Sam Medary was arrested at Columbus by the United States Marshal and brought to this city. The cause why he was arrested is not stated.

New York, May 21st.

Howard, formerly an attaché to the Times, was arrested and confessed himself the author of the recent bogus proclamation; he says he palmed it off on the journals here for gold stock operations.

The Peruvian from Liverpool 12th, Londonderry 18th, reports that an armistice was agreed upon between Denmark and the allies. The allied squadron after the 9th reached Cuxhaven on the following day; its loss is stated at 150 killed and wounded.

The pirate Florida destroyed the ship Avon of Boston, March 29th.

The Times has the following from the army of the Potomac, 20th, 6 a. m.: About 1 o'clock in the afternoon yesterday, the enemy's left, in the vicinity of Spottsylvania, made a detour by the west and crossed the Rye; about 6 o'clock they struck the Fredericksburg road near our right flank, breaking out within three quarters of a mile of the head-quarters of Meade and Grant. The only troops we had on the ground at the time were a couple of regiments of Tyler's division, but we soon brought up the remainder of our force and met the attack, driving the enemy back into the woods where the rebels had formed before. There was considered raveness in the troops, but when once fairly under fire they showed the utmost bravery. Their loss was quite heavy and will probably reach a thousand killed and wounded. The rebels gave way in confusion scattering through the woods. The repulse of the rebels rests exclusively with Tyler's heavy artillery division, though Burney's division of the 2d corps sent support and formed a line enabling Tyler to withdraw after driving the enemy several miles and clearing the Nye valley. The confusion of the rebels appears to have been great; a major portion of Rhodes' division scattering in the woods.

Tribune's special. Head-Quarters, 19th, 9 a. m., says communications as usual to-night. Supplies pouring in to Guano station, now in our possession; from this point the rebels have been bringing supplies to Rowling Green—their railroad station. It is now believed they bring supplies across the Nye from the Virginia Central Railroad, a distance of 20 miles.

The Herald says the rebel loss must have been very heavy in proportion to those engaged on the 19th; their dead and wounded lay quite thick in some portions of the line. Squads of prisoners were coming in until midnight. Five or six hundred have been already brought in. No firing of any consequence during the night; none at all yesterday morning. The rebels withdrew from their position in our rear under cover of night. Our old flank movement to the left was resumed again yesterday morning. Lee is believed to be uneasy in his entrenched position around Spottsylvania and anxious to leave it for one further south.

GATHERING SPONGES AT THE BAHAMAS.—The sponge business is largely pursued at the Bahama Islands. The exports of this article amounts annually to about $200,000. It is almost entirely the growth of the last twenty years. During that period the article has almost quadrupled in value, and has been applied to a great variety of new purposes, especially in France. The sponge is compressed in powerful presses and sacked like cotton. It is then assorted and graded, samples being fastened on each package, to show its fibre. It is fished, raked, or grappled up from the clear, sandy bottom, at a depth of twenty, forty or sixty feet, and often far from the shore. The water is so clear that the sponge is visible on the bottom.

The sponge is the covering, the habitation of the lower order of animal nature. Indeed organization can hardly be detected in the animal. When first taken from the water the sponge is black, and at once becomes offensive to the smell; the first process is to bury it in the sand, where it remains for two or three weeks, when the gelatinous matter seems to be absorbed and destroyed. The boatmen who obtain it, are paid in shares by the owners of the boats. This, therefore becomes a precarious and semi-gambling mode of life, and like wrecking, is highly attractive to the colored population.

from the camp, found himself lost on trying to return to it. After looking about, he drew himself up and exclaimed, "Injun lost!" but recovering himself, and feeling unwilling to acknowledge such short-sightedness, continued, "No, Injun no lost—wigwam lost; (striking his breast) Injun here!"

Those who call themselves statesmen, often resemble inflammable air, which, it is true, gives light itself, but, in so doing, extinguishes every other.

Many men's praying and swearing are pretty much the same; when they pray, they think of no good, and when they swear, they think of no harm.

Chloroform is recommended as excellent for scolding wives. A husband, who has just tried it, says, "No family should be without it!"

Dismissal of Officers in the Military and Naval Service.

March 28, 1865.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

Upon the bill entitled "An Act to regulate the dismissal of Officers in the Military and Naval Service," now pending in the Senate, and referred by you for my consideration, I have the honor to submit the following observations: (Here follows a particular statement of the character of the bill. Mr. Holt then proceeds as follows.) From the foundation of the Government, the President has been in the habit of summarily dismissing officers in the land and naval service. The power to do so seems to inhere in him under the Constitution as Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy. His action in this respect has been attended by no oppression or abuses, and its strict legality cannot be contested. The exercise, therefore, of this authority since the outbreak of the rebellion, has nothing in it that savors of usurpation or innovation, or that should excite alarm.

That the lodgment of such a power in the Commander-in-Chief of our army is necessary to preserve its discipline, the experience of our military men would generally attest. The necessity is most manifest and pressing in the case of an army of volunteers, suddenly withdrawn from the pursuits of civil life and impatient of those restraints, without which military forces in the field must soon degenerate into a mob. The government of such an army often calls for punishments more severe than those which are tardily inflicted through the slow process of a military trial.

The authority to suspend without pay or emolument, for a limited period, as given by the bill, would prove a most inadequate substitute for the power of dismissal. In the emergencies of military life, and especially during a period of active hostilities, the interests of the service often not only require that officers shall be instantly dismissed, but that their places shall be immediately supplied. This bill makes such supply impracticable in the case of delinquent and suspended officers, because it contemplates no vacancy.

It is well known that in time of war the convening of a court-martial for the trial of officers within the ten days prescribed by this bill, would not, in a very large number of cases, be possible, without serious detriment to the service.

As there could be no trial without an arrest of the officer, should he think proper to avoid such arrest—as he might do by flight or otherwise—he could, under this bill, be summarily dismissed only for having been absent for twenty days without leave, of whatever other crime he may have been guilty. Had such a law existed when General Twiggs traitorously surrendered his department to the rebels, instead of being dishonorably dismissed for "treachery to his country's flag," as he was, by the President, he would, though in arms against the Government, have been continued on the Army Register, unless it had been thought proper to dismiss him, simply for "absence without leave."

The number of dismissals which have taken place since the beginning of the war is not large, all the circumstances of the service considered. The Government has acted upon the testimony furnished at the moment, and mistakes have, in some cases, occurred. In every instance, however, where it has been alleged that wrong had been done, the case has been carefully re-examined, and all the proofs and testimonials offered in behalf of the officer well considered, and it is believed that it has fairly happened that a correct conclusion has not been finally reached. These re-examinations have constituted one of the most laborious duties of this office, and I can bear testimony to the patience and partiality with which they have been conducted.

To the restoration of these officers through the instrumentality of a court-martial, as proposed by the bill, several seemingly insuperable obstacles present themselves.

1. Their places, after dismissal, were in almost every instance, filled by appointments legally and properly made. How is it possible to restore them to positions not vacant, but which are fully occupied by others?

2. The regiments in which many of these officers belonged have been disbanded. In reference to this class, how would it be practicable to enforce the provisions of this bill?

3. These officers are now as much out of the service as if they had never belonged to it, and this by force of orders in every respect regular and legal. A revocation of these orders, of the President would certainly reinstate the officers in cases where the vacancies remain unfilled; but is it competent for Congress to make such revocation? I think clearly not.

4. The orders being unrevoked, and the officers being out of the service, they can only be restored by re-appointment. Under the Constitution, however, the larger part of these appointments must be made by the Governors of the States, and the remainder by the President. Is there any principle or precedent which would justify Congress in an attempt to exercise these functions of the President and Governors, by substituting for such Presidential and gubernatorial action the simple declaration of a general court-martial.

5. The Government could not investigate through courts-martial the hundreds of cases which this bill would bring up for trial, without such a draft upon the officers of the army, needed for active field service as must greatly impair the efficiency of the campaign, now about to open in every part of the theatre of the war. To this should be added the fact that the witnesses to the transactions to be examined into are, doubtless, many of them dead, and others so scattered by the fortunes of the war as to be unavailable—a condition of things which would render it impossible to accept the action of the courts-martial sitting in judgment on these officers, many of them long past as satisfactory or reliable.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. HOLT,

Judge Advocate-General.
